Wherever possible 'enzokay' cites parts of the human body in synergy with nature and its identity as the conceptual basis of her work, "...it's like stepping in a wonderland universe". With this playful approach, each piece expresses visual techniques rather than words and invites viewers to step inside a fantastic world to feel rather than think. A special space that looks like a dream, a space where many things are meant to be felt, understood metaphorically, having you come back again and again to find new emotions.
